Premier is Reported as Alive

IS NOW CONFIRMED

Is Said to Have Hidden in Steel

Raid

TOKYO, Feb. 29.—(INS)—In a sensational escape from military assassins, Premier Keisuke Okada, given up as dead for four days, emerged alive and unscathed today from Tokyo's "blood purge," the Government announced officially.

Confirmation from other sources was lacking, and in many quarters the statement was greeted with skepticism.

According to the official story, Okada hid himself in a steel cabinet when a score of rebels raided his official residence during the early hours of the reign of terror Wednesday.

For two days the 68-year-old premier lay there, never daring to make a move or utter a sound.

His own marine corps, rushing the premier's residence Thursday night, snatched him from the hands of the rebel occupants and spirited him away to safety in the Imperial Palace.

The Government's declaration that Okada is alive and continues as Premier came as nearly all the rebels had surrendered.

Fifteen insurgent officers are holding out, but officially branded by the Emperor as mutineers, they will be called upon by their code to commit Hari Kari. This, it was expected, they will do shortly.

The staggering announcement that Okada lives and the dramatic details of his rescue were given in the same form as, three days ago, his death was officially reported—through a government release to the press.

There was no further immediate substantiation of the official statement.

Col. Denzo Matsuo, the Premier's brother-in-law, was killed in the residence making a gallant fight to save Okada.

According to the announcement issued by the cabinet, Okada submitted his resignation as Premier, but Emperor Hirohito refused to accept it, and Okada continues in that office.

While practically all the rebels have evacuated the government buildings and hotels in which they were besieged since Wednesday, following the Emperor's orders to force them out if they did not surrender, the situation remains tense, and many skeptics thought the communique telling of Okada's delivery was a ruse to help restore order.

STATE NEWS

PHILADELPHIA — (INS) — Some veteran patients in the State's tuberculosis sanatoria will be sent home to make room for other adults and children now unable to be accommodated, Dr. Edith MacBride-Dexter, State Secretary of Health, announced here.

In several instances, she told a meeting of the Philadelphia College of Physicians, patients have been in the institutions 18 years. "Since they are advanced cases and have not been cured," she said, "they are no longer a health problem, but, if they have no homes to go to, they are a welfare problem."

STROUDSBURG — (INS) — The 10th annual high school gymnastic championships will be held in the East Stroudsburg State Teachers College April 4.

In a departure from usual procedure, schools this year may enter any number of events. Previously they were required to compete in all events.

"GYM" CLASS EARLIER

The Fathers' Association "gym" class will meet Monday at six p. m., instead of seven p. m., due to the high school being host to the county basketball tournament players.

WATSONVILLE, Cal.—(INS)—Mush MacFarlane, his master claims, is the only dog in California—maybe in the country—to have a genuine gold tooth. The tooth replaces a broken eye tooth. Mush raised no fuss when the dentist installed it.

FLOODED MINE DEFIES EFFORTS TO SEAL LEAK

Miners and Families Pray for Success, in Order to Gain
Sustenance

THREE MONTHS' WORK

JOHNSON CITY, Ill., Feb. 29.—(INS)—An unusual battle between man and nature—with the livelihood of this coal mining community's 6,000 inhabitants at stake—is being waged here.

The struggle began early in December when underground flood waters from abandoned coal mines on higher ground began seeping into the Old Ben Mine No. 18, the city's largest shaft. It entered the more serious stage January 8 when 33 miners, who were below building a new concrete seal to keep out the water were forced to flee for their lives as the pent-up flood rushed in.

Fortunately, they were near the elevator cage and all were hoisted rapidly to safety. Within less than an hour, the water had risen to the ceiling at the shaft.

Since then, the miners have toiled day and night bailing out the water and attempting to plug up the leaking seals which permitted it to enter the mine. As they work, anxious groups of wives and children look on hopefully, knowing that on the outcome of the struggle depends perhaps their very existence. The only other mine here, Franco No. 1, was closed for a time as the water in Old Ben 18 nearly threatened, but has been reopened.

Ingenious are the methods being used in an attempt to save the flooded mine. The elevator cages have been fitted up with buckets and are kept constantly in action bailing out the water. The cages, with buckets attached, are lowered into the water-filled shaft, then raised and the buckets emptied. This procedure is repeated time after time. Up and down the cages go, emptying millions of gallons of water daily.

Despite their most strenuous efforts however, the crews make little headway and in fact after weeks of bailing, the workers found themselves just where they were when they started—the water back at its original level.

When the original break came, 22 of these concrete seals were constructed at a cost of $50,000 to protect the three million dollar mine, which employs 550 men. The "green" seals proved ineffective however, and now the miners face the double task of bailing out the flooded mine and plugging up the holes in the seals.

Oats was tried first by the workers as a blocking medium. A hole was drilled from the surface of the ground behind the seals to a depth of 290 feet. Then three tons of the grain were poured into the hole, with the expectation that it would swell upon contact with the water and thus fill up the damaged seals.

The miners next used Bentonite, a special kind of dehydrated clay found in the Dakotas. The same principle as that obtaining with the oats will, it is hoped, cause the dehydrated clay to absorb water, swell and thus block the holes in the seals. Seven tons of this clay were fed into the mine in one day. About 70 tons in all will be used, it is estimated.

Meanwhile, the miners and their families struggle and hope and pray that they may be successful in their battle with the forces of nature, which seem determined to deprive them of their sole means of sustenance.

FORGOTTEN DAIRYMEN

By Representative Joseph W. Martin of Massachusetts

Plunging into bankruptcy the great dairy industry in this country, representing 23 per cent of the farm income, is the program of the New Deal, made plain by three distinctive blasts, each with increasing force.

The last decisive blow struck at the dairymen by the New Deal is in the Soil Erosion-Conservation Bill, taking surplus acreage from production to be planted to grasses and legumes. The industry has violently protested, but thus far the New Deal is adamant, unyielding and smug.

It was in the program of the defunct A.A.A. that the first New Deal attack was made on dairying. Land was taken out of production of cotton, tobacco, wheat and corn and in the states producing these the dairy herds increased by thousands, thus adding to the total production of milk.

Then along came the Canadian-American trade agreement, reducing the tariff on dairy and other cattle, cream, Cheddar cheese and other products coming into this country from Canada, which, even with limitations and quotas, opens the way for an invasion of our markets by Canadian producers. Knowing that other countries are able to produce at a lesser cost than this country, the New Deal proceeds with its policy of reduction.

The A.A.A. plan was the principle of scarcity. Production was curtailed. Crops were plowed under. Pigs were killed. I think even some of its supporters will admit that great injustices resulted. The New Deal, with the approval of the President, is now submitting in the Soil Erosion and Conservation Act a measure containing exactly this principle—scarcity.

Once again the New Deal proposes to take land out of the production of certain staples and turn it into grasses and legumes, ostensibly for protection against erosion and to build up soil fertility. There it is again—increases in the production of grasses and legumes mean a great addition to the amount of feed produced. Taking land out of production of wheat, tobacco and other commodities means that cows will be placed on some of this land and once again the dairy industry will be affected. Amendments to provide that no crops intended for sale be harvested on such land and that no livestock intended for sale, or products thereof, be grazed or pastured on such land were defeated in the Senate and the House, with the applause of the New Deal. The old A.A.A. is just on the stage again in a new costume, while the New Deal makes a desperate effort to circumvent the decision of the United States Supreme Court.

NAME DELEGATES TO POMONA GRANGE MEETING

Meeting of the Middletown Grange Is Held At Langhorne

TRACTORS DISCUSSED

LANGHORNE, Feb. 29.—Many members of Middletown Grange, it was revealed at the meeting held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Thompson, are of the opinion that in the long run the farm tractor is cheaper than the horses.

This discussion was opened by Jacob Hibbs, who said in his opinion it pays better to operate a tractor on the farm than to keep and feed horses the entire year. The farmer, continued Mr. Hibbs, has a comparatively large investment in a tractor, but when it is not in use it costs the farmer nothing. Whether or not the horses are at work they have to be fed during the entire year. Other members taking up the discussion seemed to agree with Mr. Hibbs.

During the brief business session the committee on arrangements for the mid-Winter meeting of Lower Bucks and Philadelphia Pomona Grange, No. 22, which will convene in Memorial House, here, on Wednesday, March 4, reported progress.

The business session was also featured by the appointment of delegates to Pomona. They include Edwin Ridge, May E. Newbold, Bertha Terry and Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Webster. Announcement was also made of the next meeting of the grange which will take place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Johnson, here, on Wednesday evening, March 11.

Mrs. Bertha Terry gave a short reading about Washington and his home at Mount Vernon, and Mrs. Eva Tomlinson read an article dealing with the importance of the home, church and school in training youth for good citizenship. She stated that many people in this age of hustle and bustle lose sight of the significance of these three institutions which had their beginnings many years ago.

Russell Newbold and Edwin Ridge spoke of the importance of the farm budget. They contended that the farmer must budget his accounts if he is to be assured of success.

The advisability of clover crops on the farm was discussed by Aaron Tomlinson, who said that if the clover is not needed as hay, it is very good for the soil if plowed under.

During their discussion relative to America maintaining its high standards, Edwin Ridge and other members of the grange suggested that the United States refrain from becoming involved in the affairs of other nations.

At the conclusion of the meeting a social hour was enjoyed and refreshments were served.

WILL PROTECT BEAVERS FOUND IN BUCKS COUNTY

Farmers to Post Land Housing
Only Two Colonies
In the County

NOT MORE THAN 12 HERE

EDGELEY, Feb. 29.—The Edgely Rod and Gun Club have pledged their support in protecting the only beavers in Bucks County, which might be trapped during the open season of 15 days, beginning March 1st.

Under the laws of the State Game Commission the bag limit is six beavers, which when trapped must be reported and stamped by the district game warden before they can be legally possessed.

The Edgely Rod and Gun Club has made an extensive survey of beavers in Bucks County and it has been found that there are, at present, only two colonies in the county.

The major colony is located at Fallsington while a branch is here. It is estimated that altogether there are not more than 12 beavers in both colonies.

In view of the fact that it has been several years since beavers lived in Bucks County, the Edgely Rod and Gun Club members think it would be very serious if all of the beavers should be caught.

The owners of the land upon which the beavers are making their homes have decided to protect them with "no trespass" signs and the members of the two clubs will aid them in every way possible.

(By "The Stroller")

A Bristol high school student sprained his foot the other day while practicing in the "gym." On reaching home he complained to his mother of the pain he was suffering. His mother immediately heated some water and told the lad to soak the foot, while she added baking soda to relieve the pain.

The youngster sat with his foot in the basin patiently for a while when suddenly he noticed the "soda" and water were hardening into a solid mass. He cried frantically for his mother to come and see what the trouble was . . . and lo and behold, the mother discovered that she had used plaster of paris instead of baking soda.

CLUB WOMEN HEAR TALK ABOUT LIFE INSURANCE

Miss Mary Peirce States That
No Mutual Life Insurance
Has Ever Failed

THE EARLY POLICIES

A talk on "Life Insurance Concerning Women" was presented by Miss Mary Peirce, representing a New York life insurance company, at the meeting of The Travel Club, yesterday afternoon, in the club headquarters on Cedar street.

That "no mutual life insurance has ever failed" was stated before the group of club women, in Miss Peirce's closing remarks, after an interesting discourse which covered many phases of insurance. This statement was followed by information as to percentages paid by mutual companies in Germany even in such a catastrophe as the world war.

Miss Peirce was introduced by Mrs. John J. Willaman, president of the club. The speaker, well versed in insurance matters, commenced by telling of various insurance schemes tried out in ancient Greek and Roman periods, which because not operated scientifically, did not "hold up." "The first policy of which we have any record is one issued in London, England, a few centuries ago, when 16 men insured a man for one year for $2,000. The rate paid was eight per cent. The insured died a few weeks short of the year's period, and the 16 endeavored to 'get out from under', but were forced to pay."

The first really scientific company was the Equitable Insurance Association of England, according to the speaker, this being established in 1759. "The first companies of course operated what were purely gambles. And the first insurance company we find in this country was the Mutual Life of New York . . . Greatest growth in insurance companies has been marked since the Civil War period. And the United States does more with life insurance than all the rest of the world. The huge growth here is due to the agents. We find, in making a study of the policies issued, that in 1860 New York state companies had 56,000 policies in force, valued at $163,000,000. In 1935 there were in force in the country 117 million policies, representing $143,000,000,000. The New York companies comprised practically the only companies in the country in 1860."

That insurance is not only for the living but for the benefit of the living as well was shown when Miss Peirce mentioned that the company she represents paid last year 67 million dollars in death claims, and 147 million dollars to living beneficiaries.

The two types of companies were mentioned as the mutual and stock, with the policy-holders really owning the companies under the mutual plan. The three general types of insurance were mentioned as: a, group insurance, caring for groups of employees; b, industrial, amounting usually to just burial insurance (and being the most expensive form because of weekly collections); c, ordinary life insurance.

The manner in which the companies have worked out the premiums in a very scientific manner was told of. "The insurance companies are regulated by state laws, and the expense of running the companies is carefully watched." The activities of the actuaries (mathematical calculators); and the work of the medical department were gone into. Miss Peirce stated that the medical department of the insurance companies is the most important part. "The medical men connected with the insurance companies are busy individuals, and do valuable service. In two million cancer cases studied the medical group has decided that cancer is not hereditary."

Use of insurance to protect savings, and estates, came in for discussion. The manner in which insurance saves forced liquidation, and is thus of great value where estates ordinarily shrink was mentioned. "Policies are an aid in emergencies, or in buying a home, etc. Insurance provides retirement funds; and aids in thrifty habits." The diver-

ATTEMPT TO "GYP" S. A. OUT OF FUNDS

Unauthorized Solicitors Reported To Have Made
Several Calls

GIRLS COLLECT $78.09

An attempt was made yesterday to cash-in on the advance publicity given in preparation for the Salvation Army drive here and unauthorized solicitors started a canvass about one hour ahead of the time, when the Girl Reserves of the Bristol high school were scheduled to start.

The scheme was discovered when Girl Reserve solicitors in making their calls were told that "someone else has been here." This the Girl Reserves knew was not as planned and they immediately contacted their leaders. Police were notified but did not catch up with individual or individuals.

The drive here was in charge of Mr. W. G. Murfit, Newtown, and J. Carroll Malloy, Doylestown. They stated today that they had no idea who was trying to misrepresent their solicitors and they did not have any idea as to how much money might have been obtained.

The 38 members of the Girl Reserves started out on their drive at the scheduled time and collected a total of $78.09.

BLAME OLD PIERS FOR ICE-JAM IN UPPER RIVER; HEARING

Claim They Unduly Obstruct
Navigation and Should Be Removed

TO HOLD A HEARING

War Department Will Hold
Hearing in Philadelphia
On March 25th

Ice in the Delaware river here was well broken-up yesterday when two Philadelphia ice breakers opened the channel. The boats opened a wide channel and today the river was in good condition.

Two more ice boats made a trip up the Delaware this morning.

Up-river conditions are still serious and the river from Trenton up is blocked with ice.

One of the obstructions blamed for holding back the ice in the vicinity of Bordentown are the piers of the P. R. R. Co., about two miles below the head of navigation at Trenton, N. J. A hearing concerning their removal is to be held in Philadelphia on March 25th.

Notice of the hearing reads:

"The piers of the partly completed bridge of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company across Delaware River about two miles below the head of navigation at Trenton, N. J., having been reported as being responsible for the accumulation of ice and as unduly obstructing navigation, a public hearing will be held by the undersigned in the United States Custom Court, Room 300, Third Floor, Customhouse, Second and Chestnut streets, Philadelphia, at 11 a. m. on Wednesday, March 25, 1936, to determine whether, pursuant to provisions of existing law, an order should be issued by the Secretary of War to require the removal, within a period of six months, of the two piers immediately outside the channel to a depth of 30 feet below mean low water and of the two shoreward piers to the natural bottom of the waterway.

"All interested parties are invited to be present or to be represented at the above-mentioned time and place, particularly navigation interests and the officials of any county, city, town, or local association whose interests may be affected by the proposed removal of the piers."

SIMPLIFY THE SPEECHES

In offering a simpler English language, meant to be understood by millions who now almost never read a book, some professors at Columbia are working a field which has not been exactly neglected. The press gives a great deal of its thought to making itself clear to the reader, and is patronized to the degree that it succeeds. It is constantly in the mind of the advertiser who aims to reach the public entire.

Every now and then the Bible is rewritten in predigested English, to the great damage of its beauty, and science and history may have been "outlined," if not in words of one syllable, at least in words of fewer than the pedagogs affect. We even have condensed novels—Heaven help us!

However, we welcome Professor Lyman Bryson and his associates to the numerous company now working in the same direction as himself, and shall be glad to assist in finding a not too crowded field in which they can work. Many departments of letters are already in the hands of the simplifiers, but this being an election year, perhaps the campaign speech offers a golden opportunity.

We suggest that he begin there. Where the orator from time out of mind has bellowed, "From the rock-bound coasts of Maine to the sunny slopes of the Pacific, from the rugged Rockies to the Gulf, we stand, one nation, one people, with one flag," he might be induced to say simply, "Well, folks, we're all Americans, aren't we?"

The orator may be reluctant to assume this primitive dialect, since the beauty of so much that is said and written lies not in its sense but in its sound. Still, the Professor can do no worse than try. If he can clarify the average political outgiving, the simplification of the spoken and written word should be accomplished with the greatest of ease.

PASSING OF RITCHIE

In the death of Albert C. Ritchie the nation has lost an able statesman and a colorful political figure. As governor of Maryland for fifteen years Ritchie set a record for tenure of office that has not been equalled by any other governor of any state.

As candidate for the Democratic nomination for President at several national conventions, Ritchie assailed prohibition and advocated states rights and government economy. After leaving the governorship of his state two years ago he attacked extension of government bureaucracy and advocated balancing of the Federal budget.

Men of Ritchie's type are becoming increasingly rare in American politics. He said what he thought regardless of minorities. It was never necessary to say of Albert C. Ritchie that he was sincere. His sincerity never was suspected.

A man who was sergeant-major over Hitler in the war is alive and well in Wisconsin. In uneasy moments we wonder what became of the second lieutenant.

New Jersey's Governor's hunt for a man with a handkerchief isn't as hopeless as one might suppose. It would take in only the Bronx.

If settling for the bonus proves too much for the taxpayer, maybe Farley could throw a dinner.

UNUSUAL VIEW OF NORRIS DAM, NEARLY FINISHED

View of the spillway of Norris dam with girders being lowered at right

Norris dam, part of the huge TVA power project, now approved by the U. S. supreme court, is nearing completion on the Clinch river, near Knoxville, Tenn. This latest view of the dam shows the beginning of work on the last link necessary to complete the structure. At the left, through which may be seen the rapidly-rising Norris lake, is the spillway where only one more drum gate is required. At the right, the first of six girders that will sustain a 300-foot bridge across the spillway, is being lowered. The girders are 112 feet long and weigh 40 tons each.

SUNDAY DINNER

Suggestions

By ANN PAGE

BUTTER and eggs are high due to continued cold and stormy weather. Egg prices will drop sharply as soon as better weather prevails.

With the arrival of Lent there is an increased interest in fish. Bad weather has made fresh fish almost unavailable so that the choice consists of frozen, salt, smoked and canned. Canned salmon is liked by most people and can be used in a great variety of ways. Red Salmon and pink are interchangeable in practically any recipe. Red salmon is less plentiful and much more expensive. It has the advantage of a more attractive color, somewhat more fat and more of the fat-soluble vitamins A and D.

There are excellent values in lamb and beef, in many vegetables and in apples, oranges and Anjou pears. Here are three menus for Sunday Dinner at different budget levels.

BRISTOL AND MORRISVILLE PLAY OFF LOWER BUCKS COUNTY COURT TIE IN TRENTON JUNIOR H. S. TONIGHT

By Jack Orr

The supremacy of the Lower Bucks County League will be at stake, tonight when Bill Dougherty's Bristol five clashes with the Blue and Gold of Morrisville at Trenton Junior High School No. 3 on West State street in the capital city.

Tonight's game is the play-off for the championship of the circuit. Both clubs wound up the scheduled league games with a .900 average. Bristol dropped the Bulldogs by a 17-13 count on the local floor while Coach Hoffmann's lads triumphed 30-14.

In the rest of the loop games both the Blue and Gold and the Cardinal and Gray captured them with ease. A great battle is expected and the Morrisville club will be the favorites by virtue of their wonderful triumph by a 16 point margin on the up-river court last Friday. The Bulldogs will be weakened, however, by the absence of Capt. Craig White, outstanding guard.

In the preliminary contest Bristol High's girls' club will be out to avenge last week's trouncing at the hands of the Blue and Gold sextet. Again in this fray the opposition will be the favorites, because of Anna Nolan, sharp-shooting forward for the up-the-road six.

Opening tap-off at 7.30 sharp.

Boys' line-up:
Bristol Morrisville
Carnvale forward Harrison
Zefferi forward Wilnot
Hughes center Aiello
Profy guard Young

BRISTOL HIGH LOSES TO BURLINGTON, 37 TO 28

By Jack Orr

BURLINGTON, Feb. 29.—The Bristol High School Bunnies attempted to bring their scheduled campaign to a successful close, here, last evening, but were humbled by an eagle-eyed sharp-shooter in the person of Charlie "Love and Kisses" Arenz. Arenz accounted for twenty of Burlington's 37 points while holding the cocky Bristolians to 28.

This was the Cardinal and Gray's third defeat in sixteen games this year. It marked one of the most successful court seasons chalked up by a Bristol club. Tonight the lads travel to Trenton to battle Morrisville High for the championship of the Lower Bucks County League.

Last night's game was all Burlington. Arenz started off with a foul but Punk Zefferi made it 2-1 with his side shot. After Hughes made it 4-1, in favor of Bristol, "Love and Kisses" went on a scoring rampage and counted six field goals in succession. Foster and Frake added another pair for the homesters and Tom Profy made it six points for Bristol. At the end of the canto Burlington led 19-6.

Each team made five points in the second period. It was in this quarter that Charlie Hughes was tossed from the ball game. The charge was talking back to the official, Burlington, 21; Bristol, 11, at the end of the half.

RESERVE SEAT DEMAND IS NOW VERY ACTIVE

Reserve seats for the amateur boxing show to be held in the Mutual Aid hall, Monday night, are selling fast, according to a report made by the chairman of the ticket committee, Charles P. Aita. The boxing show will be sponsored by the St. Ann's Athletic Association with the supervision of the Amateur Athletic Union. All day yesterday, Aita was busy reserving seats for the boxing patrons. The largest crowd of the indoor season is expected at this show which will see ten boys of Bristol and vicinity pitted against opponents from the boxing clubs of Philadelphia.

"Vince" Della will attempt to get back into the win column Monday night when he fights Vernon Woodland, Sigma Theta, in one of the bouts. Woodland holds a victory over Della and the Bristol southpaw will be seeking revenge. Della was stopped in his bout last week, taking the full count in the second session.

Bristol fans will have their eyes on another newcomer to the amateur ranks in the person of Jules Zeffries. Zeffries played on the Bristol high school football team as a fullback and is a husky youth but plenty fast. He has been working out daily and will be anxiously waiting the bell which will swing him into action.

Joseph Hayworth worked out in the St. Ann's gym and matchmaker Patsy Moffo will attempt to secure a bout for him in the 150-pound class. Hayworth represents the Rescue Squad.
